Introduction

With the economy continually shifting and technology models evolving, Governments and Businesses are finding ways to identify business needs and determine solutions by improving processes, strategic planning and policy development. Transforming technologies like Data Science, Data Mining, IoT, Big Data, Machine Learning, Artificial Intelligence, Robotics and Data Analytics are equipping the businesses to unlock the value of data, analyze complex situations, better asset utilization, improved processes and performance with less risk in fiercely competitive markets. These technologies have significantly boosted the annual revenues and productivity through smart business insights and informed business strategies.

This conference engages in analytical thinking and enables its participants to discriminate analytical tools and techniques for the application of logical, quantitative and qualitative analysis to scientific decision making, problem solving and accelerate the shift towards a data-driven culture.
