

Call for Papers

Journal of Economic Policy and Research is a bi-annual high-quality peer reviewed research journal published by Institute of Public Enterprise, a premier institute that has blend of management education and social science research. The journal aims at the dissemination of knowledge about research in economics focusing on varied socio-economic issues across the globe.

The journal provides platform for researchers, academicians, professionals, and students to share their research achievements, perspectives, and practical experiences in the form of high quality theoretical and empirical original research papers, review papers, case studies, conceptual framework, analytical and simulation models, and technical note across a wide breadth of areas pertaining to economics and its policy impacts on the society and individuals as well. The journal basically creates space for discussions and exchange of ideas and knowledge on economic issues across the wider spectrum of scholarly opinion to stimulate theoretical, empirical, and comparative studies across the globe.
